

Educational.

According to the census in 1870 the number of instructors in all classes of educational institutions was 221,042, number of pupils, 7,909,938. According to the Commissioner's report there were, in 1871, in all classes of institutions about which information was obtained, 949,932 teachers and 8,728,945 pupils.

A summary of the leading statistics of the public schools in 50 principal cities in the country, embracing a population of over 6,000,000, presents a school population of 1,739,114.

NEW COLLEGES FOR WOMEN.—Several new institutions for women were to be opened in 1873, notable among these being the Sage College for Women at Cornell University, New York; the Smith College at Northampton, Massachusetts; and the Wellesley College at Needham, Massachusetts.

INSTRUCTION FOR DEAF MUTES.—There are in the United States 40 institutions for the instruction of deaf mutes. The number of instructors employed in them is 259. The number of inmates under instruction in 1873 was 4,334.

INSTRUCTION FOR THE BLIND.—The number of asylums for the blind is 28, having 545 teachers. The number of inmates under instruction during the year was 1,916.

ORPHANS AND HOMELESS YOUTHS.—There are probably more than 400 institutions of this character in this country sheltering not less than 45,000 poor and unfortunate children.

The Commissioner of Education at Washington concludes his annual report for 1873 with the following recommendation: "In view of the appalling number of children growing up in ignorance on account of the impoverished condition of portions of the country in which slavery has been lately abolished, and in view of the special difficulties in the way of establishing and maintaining these schools for universal education, and in consideration of the imperative need of immediate action in this regard, I recommend that the whole or a portion of the not proceeds arising from the sale of public lands be set aside as a special fund, and its interest be divided annually, pro rata, between the people of the several States and Territories and the district of Columbia, under such provisions, in regard to amount, allotment, expenditure, and supervision, as Congress in its wisdom may deem fit and proper."

The report of the State Superintendent of Education, New Jersey, shows that of 298,000 children between five and eighteen years of age in the State, 185,392 are enrolled in attendance in the State schools. The increase of children within the ages mentioned during the past year has been 11,537. There are 111,098 who do not attend the State schools. There are 1,498 school buildings in the State.

Dr. F. H. Hubbard, of San Francisco, has offered two prizes of $50 and $20 respectively to the seniors of Dartmouth College for the best and second best essays on topics prescribed by him. The subjects for this year are, "Intellectual Culture and Professional Reward," and "The Rights of Independent Criticism."

The Goleos says the Government of Russia has resolved to introduce a system of compulsory elementary education. A trial is to be made at St. Petersburg of the Berlin system, and it is thought the new schools will be opened by the 15th inst.

In Norway and Sweden every public school has a gymnasium where the children are compelled to take a few minutes' exercise after every hour's study. In California all primary schools are required to have exercise in calisthenics, in vocal culture, and in breathing, twice each day, of from three to five minutes.

Twelve States now have a law making attendance at school, at least three months in the year, obligatory. They are New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Kansas, Texas, Nevada and California.

In a school "out West," a child being called on to name some distinguished American writer replied, "Frank Leslie, Frank Munro, and Anonymous." On being questioned further it was his candid opinion that Frank Leslie made the best pictures, but that Anonymous wrote the best poetry.

In a Gazetteer of the State of New York, published in 1813, we find the following: "In this survey of Albany we must not forget the elegant conveniences afforded by steam navigation on the Hudson. There are now three steamboats employed on this river between Albany and New York, the largest of which is 170 feet long and 28 wide, its burthen 350 tons, which perform the passage to Albany in the average time of thirty to thirty-six hours. Their periods are very regular and uniform, and they have excellent accommodations, being designed for passengers exclusively. They leave Albany on stated days, one on Wednesday, Saturday and Monday, at 6 o'clock a. m., and New York every succeeding Saturday, Tuesday and Thursday, at 6 o'clock p. m., in the same order. Passage and board seven dollars each way. Independent of the novelty and ingenuity of the mode, unknown in Europe, the despatch, certainty of time, and entire security, with the perfect convenience and ease with which we pass so rapidly from place to place, we enjoy the proud reflection that the invention of steam navigation, and that no other portion of the world enjoys such facilities of intercourse. There is a steamboat constantly running between this city and Troy, performing four passages a week, every twenty-four hours. The stage for Utica runs through every day, for New York in two days; for Burlington, Vt., in two days; and there are stages for every part of the country with little delay of conveyance."

The Nautical School under the direction of the New York Board of Education will soon be in operation. Commander Robert L. Payson, United States Navy, has been detailed to act as Superintendent of the school. When a pupil has passed successfully through the prescribed term—from eighteen months to two years—he will be awarded a certificate bearing his rating and general character, which will always insure him employment. Boys not under fifteen years of age, having the written consent of their parents or guardians, will be received on condition that they are of sound constitution and that they evince some aptitude or inclination for a sea-life. They will be informed and supplied with bedding, for which a moderate charge will be made. They will be carefully instructed in all the duties of a seaman, and in the working of the marine artillery, the use of small arms, and the cutlass exercise. Any person desiring further information, can address David Wetmore, Chairman, Committee on Nautical School, Board of Education, No. 146 Grand street, or No. 365 Greenwich street.
